

SEVERAL WEEK END AUTO ACCIDENTS

SATURDAY AND SUNDAY UNLUCKY DAYS FOR AUTO-MOBILES—THREE RESULT IN INJURIES.

Chester and Dallas Powers and Elmer Miller were slightly injured early Saturday evening when Dallas drove his car directly into an interurban car at the intersection of Huron and Michigan avenue. The auto was going north on Huron and in crossing Michigan met the interurban car coming up the Michigan avenue hill. Eye witnesses to the accident say that the auto struck the car squarely and it was only a miracle that all of the occupants were not killed or badly injured. The auto was put out of commission and the three men were rushed to the hospital, where, after their injuries were taken care of they were permitted to go.

Report had it on the streets that one of the Powers brothers died from his injuries Sunday morning. The writer was informed that he was all but dead when the accident happened. So much for rumor.

Sunday afternoon A. King, who resides east of Ypsilanti on the old Lent farm, was hurt as his auto went into the ditch near the county farm on the Washtenaw road. Mr. King says that he pulled out of the road to pass another car, but saw a car coming and in the attempt, to keep from striking the car went into the ditch. His car was badly smashed and it was thought for a time that he had sustained a fracture of the skull. He was badly cut about the neck and it will be in the neighborhood of a couple of weeks before he will be out of the University hospital, where he was taken.

Another accident happened on this road Sunday, not far from the King accident, when a car containing four nurses from Harper hospital, Detroit, went into the ditch. They were immediately rushed back to Detroit and the extent of their injuries were not learned, although it was reported that two of the girls received broken legs and the other two were badly bruised.

Sunday riders reported several minor accidents on the different country roads, mostly due to reckless driving. With new gravel being spread on nearly all the roads it is a dangerous pastime to race and drive at the speed some do. It is only a question of time when Michigan will have to pass laws similar to those now in operation in New Jersey, where every driver has to pass an examination before he is permitted to drive a car. When youths and fools are permitted to run at high speed accidents will happen and make the country roads dangerous for those who enjoy sane auto riding.

YPSILANTI GRANGE MEET AT MASONIC TEMPLE

The Ypsilanti Grange met Saturday afternoon at the Masonic temple. Roll call was responded to by telling a story or singing a song. Mrs. Louise Crippen, aged 70 years, sang "Old Folks at Home" in a very pleasing manner. Ennis Twist spoke on "The Grange and Politics." He stated formerly politics could not be lawfully discussed in grange meetings, but that now it was permissible to discuss political questions, but not the merits of any candidate.

Each grange in the county has the privilege this year of sending to Pleasant Lake three girls and three boys to the grange camp to be held in August. Each one must pay $1 registration fee and also contribute eggs and butter.

RAY BATTERY BEATS THE AMERICAN OIL CO.

The Ray Battery ball team opened the season in Ypsilanti Sunday by defeating the American Oil company of Jackson by a score of 2 to 0. In the neighborhood of 400 fans witnessed the game. Crossman pitched and had the visitors at his mercy throughout the nine innings. Two games are scheduled this week with the Howlett Clowns Saturday and Sunday, May 27 and 28. Both games will be called at 3 o'clock sharp. Fans, don't miss these games. You will see a good article of ball as well as a lot of comical stunts. The Ray Battery new athletic park is one of the best ball parks in this part of the state and it has been built for those who enjoy the national sport and to give Ypsilanti a place where those who wish can go and see a good game of ball.

SUMMER NORMAL BRIGHT OUTLOOK

ENROLLMENT PROMISES TO EXCEED LARGE ENROLLMENT OF LAST YEAR.
73 INSTRUCTORS.

Prospects are the Normal will have a larger enrollment this year than last, when it reached the highest mark in the history of the college, 2,100. Registrar C. P. Steimle reports that inquiries are coming in every day at a rate that promises to surpass last year.

There will be in the neighborhood of 100 sisters here again this year for the summer school and they will be housed in the homes of President McKenny and Professors Peet and Bowen and Health cottage. The question is already being asked, "How will it be possible to house the teachers this summer?" Well, the situation has always been met and no doubt will be met again this year. Several new houses have been built in Ypsilanti the past year and more are now being built, which will help over last year.

Several new courses are being offered this summer, such as modern poetry, outdoor sketching, sculpture, word study, teaching of junior high school mathematics, Spanish life and culture, appreciation of music, early history of singing, radio theory and practice, speech correction, civic biology and secondary education being taught for the first time in summer school. The teaching staff includes 16 instructors from other schools, totaling a faculty of 73 teachers. The summer term will open four weeks from next Monday, June 26.

ROTARIANS ENTERTAIN HIGH SCHOOL BOYS

Monday evening at the Country club the Rotarians entertained the senior high school boys of the Normal and Central high. Dr. Paul Volker, president of Olivet college, was the speaker of the evening.

Mr. Volker has made a life study of boy character. He told of a group of boys tested in New York city as to their honesty, picking the boys from those who had had three months' training by Boy Scouts and from the streets that had had no training. He said that the best boys tested 78 per cent and the worst 42 per cent. The boys who had the advantage of Boy Scout training tested the highest.

He had with him several tests used and gave a demonstration of their use to his audience. His talk was one of the best heard by the Rotarians and their guests and will long be remembered.

KIWANIANS HEAR TAX EXPERT TALK

John C. Nagel, tax expert and supervisor of Wayne county, spoke Wednesday before the Kiwanis club. He scored the state tax commission and stated they exercised the powers of a board of assessors, board of review, jury and legislative authority. Up until the state tax commission was created "we got along fine in Michigan; since then there has been much unrest in the state, caused by high taxes, he stated.

"All taxes ought to be apportioned on the axiom that all property should pay according to the benefits it receives from society. Land receives all its value from society and should be taxed the highest. Buildings and stocks of goods should have lower rates. They only get police, fire and court protection. In Detroit today there is five hundred millions of dollars of tax exempt property. Business men duck taxation because of the unfair methods used in taxing them. If a manufacturer knew in advance what his taxes would be he would make a fair disclosure. All assessing officers should be appointive and not elective. Wayne and Washtenaw counties are not assessed fairly by the state tax commission in proportion to other counties," Mr. Nagel stated.

Happily, one designer has developed a new and subtle line in top cutting. It gives to this shoe all the smooth, snug-lacing effect of the daintiest styles, yet sweeps gracefully—almost delicately—from the small foot into the ampler ankle lines as no other shoe has ever done.

If this difficult problem of foot style has been a trying one for you, let us show you how it has been met in these—

Firestone CORD TIRES

The section at the right was cut from a new Cord of the same size. Careful measurements show that only 1/3 of the tread of the tire on the Yellow Cab has been worn away after this long, gruelling test. The carcass is intact after more than 11,000,000 revolutions.

Firestone Cords have averaged over 10,000 miles on Chicago Yellow Cabs (1,200 cabs all Firestone equipped). In thousands of instances, they have given from 15,000 to 30,000 miles.

Look at the tread—scientifically angled against skid, massive and heavy in the center where the wear comes, tapered at the edges to make steering easy and to protect the carcass against destructive hinging action of high tread edges. The carcass is air bag expanded to insure uniform tension and paralleling of every individual cord. It is double "gum dipped" to make sure that each cord is thoroughly insulated with rubber.

This is the reason why Firestone Cords unfailingly deliver extraordinary mileage. It explains the unanimous demand of thoughtful tire buyers for these values. The local Firestone dealer will continue to provide the personal service that makes Firestone tire comfort and economy complete.

BOOZE-LOADED TRUCK CAPSIZES.

Charles Bagshaw, claiming Chicago as his home town, was arrested last Friday afternoon when the auto he was driving went into the ditch on the Washtenaw road near the county farm. A stranger who happened along at the time offered his assistance to Bagshaw, and in the operation of righting the machine his nostrils were assailed with a well-known smell that in the past has become a familiar odor on some of our roads, combined with a few suspicious looking bundles in the back of the car, led the stranger to believe that the load consisted of something besides lawful merchandise. He reported the accident to the sheriff's office at Ann Arbor and Deputy Arnold was sent out to investigate. When he reached the scene he found that Bagshaw had righted his machine and was about to proceed on his way. A little investigation was proposed by the deputy, resulting in uncovering 120 quarts of liquor. Bagshaw was taken into custody and landed in the county jail. In circuit court Tuesday morning he stood mute and was remanded to jail for a later hearing.

The Players were organized in 1915 and have achieved the distinction of having the smallest play house in the world. To each member of the Players is due the highest compliment for their efforts in bringing to their audiences clean, wholesome entertainment, that has established for them a reputation recognized not only in their home town but abroad.

Fahrner on Tuesday recommended that the case of the people vs. Peter Paris be dismissed on the ground that the complainant, Mrs. Edith Richardson, was not able to positively identify Paris as the man who refused to serve her food in the College cafe. Under the law, Prosecutor Fahrner stated, it was necessary to arrest the identical person who actually refused the service and it was not sufficient that the proprietor be arrested unless he was the party who made the refusal.

"Now, isn't it strange," asked Marcus, after they took up their conversation again, "that while I was gone I always thought of you, but not just like this. Honey, girl, how long have you loved me? Before—before today?"

"I think always," confessed Evelyn, with a growing flush.

What a fortunate man Marcus Mac-

Kenzie considered himself just at that moment! He had won the prettiest girl in Ithaca; and she loved him. "And to think I only came home last night," he exulted. "This time yesterday you were free, my Eve. At this moment no power can take you away from me."

Dreadful recollections of Oscar intruded upon Evelyn's new happiness. Oh, if she only had the courage to tell Marcus! Would he keep on loving her and help her to get free, or would he—she glanced into his face. There were upon it the marks of breeding, of pride in himself, his wealth, position and power. She knew how highly he regarded the conventions of society. If she should disclose to him the secret of her marriage to the farmer, he would see nothing but the blot upon her and turn away in disgust. No, she couldn't tell him. Despair overwhelmed her and made MacKenzie's arms burdensome. With an effort she smiled faintly and withdrew from him. "I don't want to let you go, darling," he laughed. "It seems like a beautiful dream!"

Eve wished passionately that she were at liberty to make the dream come true. "You are my beloved," asserted Marcus, and with the girl's whispered "yes," he allowed her to leave the room.

Evelyn went immediately to her mother's apartment and, opening the door, slipped in and sank down upon the floor at Mrs. Robertson's side.

"I've told him I'd marry him," she said, with trembling lips. "Mother dear, oh, please, mother dear, don't you think you could borrow some money from Robert for me? I must have it. After I'm married to Marcus, I could get it all back for you. I know I could. I've just got to have a lot of money, and you can't expect me to ask Marcus."

Mrs. Robertson drew away with a shiver.

"If you so forgot yourself, your family and your name as to do such a thing, I should disown you, Evelyn," she said, finally in her tones.

Evelyn rose wearily. She could imagine the heights of her mother's scorn if she discovered the actual situation. She felt that she would rather tell MacKenzie than the unsympathetic, frowning woman in the chair.

"There's no use, mother, in trying to talk to you," she muttered. "I'll manage some way, though only God knows how."

Mrs. Robertson took up her book and gazed sternly at her daughter over the top of it.

"Very well, Evelyn," she said, ungraciously. "You're of age. If that's the way you feel about it, there's nothing more to be said."

Whereupon the speaker began to read, and a very hopeless girl crept out of the room.

When Evelyn was repairing the ravages made by her emotions, Polly Hopkins crept into the Robertson garden. Her fear of Mrs. Robertson was mingled with a thrilling happiness. She had seen Granny Hope and Wee Jerry eat the fresh eggs; Daddy's promise would keep him out of trouble with Old Marc; and the beautiful stranger would help them!

She gave a piercing little trill, the signal she had always used to call Evelyn from the house. Almost at once a figure stepped from the door to the porch directly in front of her, and terrified, she shrank back among the vines and clung there.

Silhouetted against the bright light was Robert Percival. He stood gazing straight ahead of him at the dark driveway, but turned when Evelyn appeared beside him. Polly heard the murmur of their voices, that was all. They then disappeared into the house, Evelyn laughingly pushing the soldier ahead of her. Quickly the girl came out again; and Polly could hear her swift-coming breaths as she ran softly down the steps.

"Shush," hissed Polly Hopkins. "Lordy, I was scared to death some one'd catch me."

"Pollyop," questioned Evelyn anxiously. "What'd he say? Was he angry?"

Their heads were very close together, and Polly gave the message in a low tone.

"He wants you to come to Granny Hope's hut at nine o'clock tonight, an' I guess you best do it. He's as mad as ever a man can be."

"I'm afraid," Evelyn wailed. "I'm terribly afraid, Polly dear."

All the sympathy in Polly's heart came to sudden life.

"I reckon you be," she returned. "But you've got to get up your spunk an' go. Oscar'd just as soon come bustin' right in your house here, I guess, if you don't. You come along, an' at nine o'clock I'll hike over an' get in the hut too. Say, why can't you talk just a little nicer to him? Granny Hope's got a Bible, an' it says when a feller hurts you, speak kind of soft back, an' he won't have nothin' more to say. Hist! What's that noise? Scoot."

Before Evelyn could say another word, the squatter girl slipped away among the shadows. The other, although surrounded with every luxury, went wretchedly up the steps and, forcing a smile to her lips, passed into the music room.

Billy-goat Hopkins had blinked many times before his little mistress came home. Larry Bishop had gone to his lonely hut, and Daddy Hopkins and Granny Hope were dozing in front of the stove.

In nervous tension Polly watched the clock crawl along toward the hour of the meeting between Oscar and Evelyn. About a quarter to nine, she stole out of doors.

By familiar paths, slipping past a shanty here and there, Pollyop came at length upon a lonely shack set on a point by itself. She went around to the back, opened the door, and once

"Oh, she's comin' all right," answered Polly, "but she were afraid. So I came along to see she got home safe."

A loud laugh fell from Bennett's lips.

Before Evelyn could say another word, the squatter girl slipped away among the shadows. The other, although surrounded with every luxury, went wretchedly up the steps and, forcing a smile to her lips, passed into the music room.

Billy-goat Hopkins had blinked many times before his little mistress came home. Larry Bishop had gone to his lonely hut, and Daddy Hopkins and Granny Hope were dozing in front of the stove.

In nervous tension Polly watched the clock crawl along toward the hour of the meeting between Oscar and Evelyn. About a quarter to nine, she stole out of doors.

Fordson TRACTOR

"Yes I've more Time for Myself Since I Got a Fordson"

The Fordson Tractor is taking much of the drudgery out of farm life; it is solving the labor problem; it is reducing the cost of preparing land by almost one half of what it was with horses; and it is saving one third to one half of the farmer's time; and making farm life more attractive.

The Fordson will run your threshing machine—and at the most opportune time for you. It will operate the milking machines, saw your wood, fill your silo, pump the water, and take care of every kind of belt work—

And don't forget—it will plow six to eight acres in a ten hour day, handling two plows with ease.

Thus the Fordson is the ideal year-round tractor. It will pay for its fall and winter keep in many ways.

There's a big story to tell you about the Fordson—and a true one—come in and get the facts. Or, if you prefer, telephone or drop us a card and we will bring them to you.

MILK AND VITAMINES

MILK IS BOTH MEAT AND DRINK

Herbert Hoover, international authority on food supply, realized the need and authorized the publication by Charles Scribner's Sons of the "Food Guide," based on the food facts found by the War Board. It says:

We can conserve wheat, meat, sugar and fats, and be none the worse for it, BUT WE MUST USE MILK. The children of today must have it for the hardy manhood tomorrow. A quart a day for every child and a pint for every adult is not too high. A commission found, when a city had cut down its milk consumption 25 per cent, twice as large a per cent of the children were found undernourished—half starved.

Grown people should use milk and appreciate that it is for more than a beverage. Comparing it with tea and coffee is not sensible. The idea that food is 'something to chew' breaks down completely when milk is considered. Milk is both meat and drink."
